Discussion on local agricultural activity in Windham - food, flowers, livestock and poultry

Windham residents interested in promoting and sustaining local agricultural activity in town are invited to attend a meeting on Thursday, June 17th at 7pm at the Nesmith Library to discuss farming in town. People raising vegetables, flower, nursery plants, poultry and livestock are encouraged to join this informal discussion, organized by Windham resident Lori Demaine. Erick Sawtelle, a member of the Town of Lee Agricultural Commission will be speaking about how Lee has been promoting and protecting local agriculture. Theresa Walker of the Rockingham Planning Commission will be looking for your help in identifying where in Windham people are farming, raising livestock and poultry, etc. For more information, please call Theresa Walker at 603-534-3913.
